

"TAKE GOOD CARE OF MOTHER."

These words fell upon my ears while seated in the cars, a few days since, just ready to start on their swift passage from Fall River to Boston.

I looked up as the speaker entered the door, and at the same moment heard the response from a fresh young voice without: "O yes, I will."

The person who had first spoken passed to her seat, some way behind me, and I saw her no more.

There was nothing in her appearance to interest one at a single glance, and I doubt whether a more lengthened observation would have given any impression beyond that of a good, honest, common-sense sort of a face, yet my thoughts were busy with her all that two-hour's ride. Those simple, but earnest words, bespoke a heart of love—a sense of her duty as a child. My heart warmed to her, and I wondered if she had learned to love him, who in his dying agony said:

"Son, behold thy mother!"

To the holy John it was enough to say, "Receive and treat her as you would your own mother." That would insure all that love could think of, or reverence command—but would it have been sufficient for all?

Are there not many who seem to have no thought of the respect and love due to "Mother"—men, possessed of thousands, put away from their homes the poor, feeble parent, whose life has been consumed in labor for them, to end the weary remnant of her days in the parish poor-house. Daughters even speak, too often, only of the care, and nothing of the pleasure and honor of "taking care of mother." Children did you ever think it possible that you might some day become so cold and changed as to neglect the dear mother you now caress so fondly?

You may—these unkind sons and daughters once loved their mother too. Little by little have they grown so cold, and so may you, unless you try to avoid it. Shall I tell you how this may be done? You must think about it, act about it.

When you are alone at night, try to recollect the many times that day your mother has cared for your comfort, and your heart will swell with gratitude and love; and then ask God to help you to try and return her kindness, and keep you from disobeying her commands.

You can act about it by trying to take "good care" of her now. I knew a little boy, not a year and a half old, who used to watch his mother's face, and if he saw a cloud of sadness resting upon it, would leave his play, and refuse to return till she smiled again. God called him and he left his mother; but the memory of his love will be a joy to her as long as she lives.

I know another little boy, of four years old, who, when his mother's head aches, will soften his loud singing voice, and curb his impatient, noisy steps, that he may not disturb her. When he and his mother are walking together, he will carefully watch that her dress does not come in contact with the mud of the street, and if it is in danger, he will step behind and hold it up. Is she not as much honored by her little son's politeness as Queen Victoria by her train? I feel sure that this little fellow will never send his mother away to die, alone, or among strangers.

What can you do?

Why, can you not sometimes play with your little brother, instead of having a game with your mates—or can you not spread the dinner or supper table instead of reading that new book? or is there not some way in which you can relieve her care and make her heart light?

Remember, dear children! "Take good care of mother!" [Reaper.]

"Will you take this woman to be your wedded wife?" asked an Illinois magistrate of the masculine of a couple who stood up before him.

"Well, squire, you must think me a tarnal green hand to ask me such a question as that ar." Do you think that I'd be such a plaguy fool as to go to the bar hant, and take this ar gal from the quilting frolic, if I wasn't conscriptuously sartin' and determined to have her? Drive on with your business and don't ax foolish questions."

GIPSEYS.—We see numerous notices of wandering bands of Gipseys who have within a few months made their appearance in the United States. One of them, who pretended to be a doctress lately administered an opiate to a lady near Edenton, N. C., and while she was thus stupefied the Gipsy went to the secretary in which the lady's husband had a few days before deposited a roll of bank bills amounting to $6,000, and taking out the money made tracks. People in the country should be on the look out for these "Gipseys." They are thieving vagabonds, and very adroit at that. They are supposed to be from England.

A "FAST" MAN.—In Chicago, on Friday, an individual named John Weazel got married, and, in a few hours afterwards, gave his wife an unmerciful beating, was arrested, and sent to jail for twenty-seven days.

WONDERFUL HARVEST IN KENTUCKY.—The Louisville Courier of Tuesday says:

"We have information by letter, and from nearly all sections of the State, to the effect that there is every reasonable prospect of a harvest unparalleled in the history of Kentucky. Every species of grain has grown with the greatest luxuriance. The orchards are bowed down with their fruitful loads.—Hemp promises to be a fine yield, and the tobacco will be far better than last year.

THE GRAND RIVER TIMES.

GRAND HAVEN, MICHIGAN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUG. 8, 1855.

A Card.

In my affliction, by the loss of a kind and devoted husband, suddenly, by drowning, I gratefully acknowledge the kindness and sympathy of the citizens of Grand Haven, Spring Lake, and vicinity, accompanied by a very liberal donation of one hundred sixty-eight dollars and twenty-five cents, contributed generously, by over one hundred persons, mostly strangers to me, but who seem ready to "weep with those who weep," and to "visit the widow and fatherless in their affliction." May the Giver of all good abundantly reward you all with temporal and spiritual blessings innumerable. Mill Point, August 3, 1855. C. CAREVER.

THE LATE RAINS.—DESTRUCTION OF WHEAT.—The N. Y. Tribune says that reports have been received from many places in the interior of the State, that the late rains have done great damage to the fields of wheat; so much so, that the kernels have grown so as to appear quite green, while the stalk is still standing, and that already cut and lying in the swath is still worse off; and in many instances the outside of shocks and stacks are green as a fresh-mowed meadow. The Rochester papers, in particular, speak of this state of things in the Genesee Valley. Similar accounts of injury to wheat reach us from the interior and southern portions of our State, but the damage is not so great here as it is further east.

NEW CHURCH EDIFICES.—The Detroit Inquirer states that the frame of a new Congregational Church was raised in Greenville, Montcalm Co., on Saturday last, also one at Hillsdale.

Right—churches and school-houses are our country's bulwarks; the strong defences of our national liberties and individual rights; the true guardians of the boon received from the patriots of a former generation. Then let them multiply. Let the Bible and Science have the controlling influence over the national mind, through the individualities of which it is composed, that both may work in perfect harmony, enabling us to excel morally, as well as intellectually, those nations with whom we are closely associated in commercial and monetary relations.

It is our design to check, as much as possible, the spirit of envy, and are still really hopeful that we shall not be outdone by our sister villages in any good work. It must be remembered that large bodies move slowly, and often accomplish as much or more, thereby, than smaller ones moving with greater celerity. So we trust our Greenville and Hillsdale friends will not reject too abundantly under an impression that they are so far in advance of us in erecting a church edifice, the foundation of which, in embryo, was laid about the same time as that about to be erected in our village. We are happy to have it in our power to announce, to all concerned, that a large amount is already secured by subscription, and that active preparations will be entered upon, immediately, to rear a house which, when completed, will, to say the least, be sufficiently beautiful and imposing for persons of the most exalted piety to seek therein some favored spot fitted to inspire in the mind thoughts of a purer and higher devotional character, while in truth and sincerity they bow before the great I Am.

We would say to our citizens, urge forward the good work! Let us speedily see the good in store for us, ere our eyes become weary with watching, and our hearts desponding through hope deferred.

UTTERLY DECLINED.—We learn from the N. Y. Tribune that the Liquor Dealers Association refuse to accept the offer of the Temperance Alliance to test the validity of the Prohibitory Law, before the Supreme Court. They say they are going to test it before the people.

The truth is, they can neither be driven or coaxed into Court, on the sham of unconstitutionality. The money raised to test the law is to be used as an election fund, and the main reliance of the rum sellers will be in the votes that they can secure the next Assembly for a repeal.

THE COMMUNICATION SIGNED "Many Citizens," which appeared last week in the Grand Rapids Herald, in relation to the small pox prevailing to an alarming extent in that city, and noticed by us last week, appears to have spread a false impression as to the number who had suffered from that disease. The Grand River Eagle, of this week, sets the matter right; stating that four cases only have occurred there, and that the city is now entirely free from disease.

DETROIT AND MILWAUKEE RAILROAD.—The Daily Press, of Chicago, contains the following statement in relation to the Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad:

"The western terminus of this road is at Grand Haven, opposite of Milwaukee, which place can be reached by boats the greater part of the year. Twenty miles of this road, from Detroit to Pontiac, are finished, and it will be completed to Owosso, seventy-eight miles, in September. The company have abundant means in their power to put the road in running order to Owosso, and the balance of the road to Lake Michigan has been contracted for, for $3,500,000."

KIND PATRONS DON'T GRUMBLE because so much of our paper is taken up with the advertisement of Annual Tax Sales. It is remunerative to us, and we shall endeavor by our zeal still to serve you to the best of our humble ability to make it a matter of but little loss to you.

We are sorry to treat with seeming neglect the contributions of our fair correspondents, who neglect to intrust us with their names. "Polly Love" must excuse us from publishing "I wish to get Married," and the attending poetical contribution; not that we object to the sentiment, by any means, but we have adopted a rule that in order to secure the publication of any communication the real name of the author must accompany it. We are always happy to hear from correspondents, and will insert their articles whenever consistent for us to do so.

GRASSHOPPERS IN SACRAMENTO VALLEY.—Latest California accounts assert that the crops in the valley of the Sacramento had been entirely consumed by grasshoppers; fruits, vegetables, and grain, being swept away as by fire. The country was swarmed by these insects.

MR. LEGGAT will please accept our thanks for continued favors in furnishing us the latest intelligence, by way of Chicago and New York papers.

FOREIGN.—The Asia brought no foreign news of importance.

For the Grand River Times. HE IS GONE!

Death claims a silent tear; who will weep with me beside a poor man's grave?

Slowly, and solemnly the tolling bell tells us that a brother has gone to his long home; and as the sad reverberations die along the distant hills, echo faintly murmurs, "He is gone!"

The morning dawned upon him bright and beautiful, but at midday, when the merry hum of business, and the cheerful voices of his fellow men rang merrily in his ear, the silent summons came to him; he went down, and the cold, blue waves closed over him!

Oh! who can tell the agony of the fond wife and mother, when this melancholy intelligence first reached her ears? when she came to realize that she was bereft of her husband, and her four children of their father? The grief may shed her bitter tears in silence, and alone, yet tears of human sympathy will fall. Oh, God! in mercy be the widow's Friend! a Father to her helpless little ones!

He is gone! but memory will linger round his grave. The fond husband will long be missed by one sad heart made desolate, and by children who never knew a father's care, or learned to lip a father's name. And the honest ferry-man will be missed, too, by the many, for whom he ever had a pleasant smile. But who will give to memory a tear?

Oh! to die and be forgotten! to be forgotten ere the grass springs green above our graves! No! rather will we cling to life, when love and hope is dead, and every other tie that binds us here is severed!

When I am gone, shall I be missed? Shall I be missed when many years have cast their shadows o'er my grave? when my voice is heard no more on earth, but the cold, damp earth presses heavily upon me—when this frail tenement has mouldered back to dust—will love, and friendship's mingled tears pay tribute to my memory?

Missed when I am gone! There is naught in death that is terrible, or in the silent grave from which the timid soul can shrink. Oh, I would love to lay this weary, aching head upon the bosom of my mother earth; to rest where sorrow has no power o'er the heart, and care cannot corrode.

But O, to die and be forgotten! To have the friends whom I now love—whose every word finds a glad echo in my heart—pause but one moment by my open grave and murmur, "She is gone!" then go away and think no more of me!

Oh, the grave! the cold, relentless grave! Is this to be the end of all our brightest hopes? and must the soul dismiss its longing after joys immortal, ere it enters Death's dark portal? Then what is life but disappointed hope? and death but the setting of life's great sun?

Cease, troubled soul! be still! There is a bright and pure heaven beyond; a heaven of eternal rest. No sin has entered there, and nothing is forgotten, for a book of everlasting remembrance is kept. There can the weary soul bathe in the fountain of eternal love. Oh, blissful immortality! Be this my happy lot!

HARPER'S STORY BOOK, No. 9, is upon our table. "Timbo and Fanny" is an exceedingly interesting tale. We wish every little boy and girl could read it.

Entered this port, from July 31, to August 6, brigs, 3; schooners, 20; 1 sloop; propellers, 2.

The Michigan Farmer, for August, is on hand with its thousand useful hints.

LAST OF THE GILMANTON SNAKE STORY.—In Boston on Wednesday, at the exhibition of the charmed girl and the black snake, about which so much has been said lately in the newspapers, the reptile bit the child, and the latter seemed to be in great fear. The father was arrested and taken before the police magistrates, where he was charged with restraining the child and assaulting it by means of the snake. After an examination he was held to bail in the sum of $500 for trial. In the opinion of those who have examined into the matter, the whole affair of the snake-charmed girl is an imposture of the rankest kind.

REMOVAL OF GOV. REEDER.—The President has appointed the Hon. John L. Dawson, of Pennsylvania, Governor of Kansas, in place of the Hon. A. H. Reeder, removed. Mr. Dawson was an effective member of last Congress, and voted for the Nebraska-Kansas bill. He is also known as a strenuous advocate of the policy of giving homesteads to actual settlers, and introduced a bill for that purpose, which passed the House of Representatives but failed to obtain the sanction of the Senate.

THE INDIAN COUNCIL, AT DETROIT.—There were seventy-two Indians in the city yesterday, in attendance upon the Council, representing the Pottawatamie, Ottawa, and Chippewa tribes. Enough more are expected to-day to swell the number to one hundred.—There is a treaty to be made under which it is expected that the policy of the State government, in permitting the Indians to remain in this State, will be furthered by the General Government, giving to each family a farm. The Indians were in council yesterday. To-day it is expected that the U. S. Commissioner will meet the Chiefs in Council, at the County Court-House.

Gov. Seymour, of Conn., our Minister to Russia, says that he saw no troops in either France or England equal to the army of two hundred thousand Russians, at St. Petersburg and vicinity. The Russians are superior in size and discipline, though not equal to the Allies in spirit.

J. C. Derby is to publish, by subscription, "The Life and Times of Gen. Cass." It will be issued in one large volume of eight hundred pages, uniform in style and manner with "Benton's Thirty Years in the Senate," and will be under the superintendence of Gen. Cass himself.

The Yellow Fever is on the increase in New Orleans. Sixty-three deaths have occurred at the hospital during the past week. The disease, however, has not assumed a malignant type.

Patrick Kelly, a grocer in Lowell, Mass., recently paid fines for selling liquor in violation of the law amounting in the aggregate to $7,000. He was then held to bail in the sum of $14,000, and his stock in trade attached for security.

Emma Coe, Esq., has entered upon the regular practice of law, in Philadelphia.—Elizabeth Young, Esq., has engaged in the same profession at Lowell, and a smart young lady at Pittsburg is vigorously prosecuting legal studies.
